① EYES: Had a little too much to drink last night? Revive your raccoon eyes with Vie Collection's Puffiness Reducing Gel from St. Paul's StormSister Spatique. Made in France, this stuff makes two hours of sleep look like a solid eight. $123

② SKIN: "Shower butter" sounds gross, but we swear these cute little candy-like bars from Blissful Bath in Woodbury are worth the strange name. Lather up, rinse off and your skin will smell like a dream. $6

⑤ HAIR: Green hair is all the rage these days—we're talking eco-friendly, not punk rock. Check out Rocco Altobelli's new 100-percent organic BioEdge shampoo, conditioner and styling products. $13.95-$19.95

⑥ FACE: Aloe, milk, chamomile, lavender and green tea extract: Sounds like the recipe for a heavenly baby nap, but it's actually a gentle facial cleanser from St. Paul's Garden of Eden. Ninety-percent organic, it works on all skin types; maybe even babies', but you might want to hold off 'til puberty. $11

⑦ FEET: Even the world's hottest models have gnarly feet from time to time. One-up Heidi Klum's tootsies with Blissful Bath's Sole Survivor moisture rub. It uses ingredients like shea butter and avocado to smooth your cracked heels and welcome flip-flops back into your life. $8
